DUBKE EXIT SEEN AS FIRST SHOT IN SHAKE-UP

President Donald Trump's communications director is leaving the job, the White House said, as the president considers wider staff changes to try to contain political damage from probes into Russia and his presidential campaign. Mike Dubke confirmed reports he had resigned, saying in a statement, "It has been my great honor to serve President Trump and this administration." Dubke, who had been in the job just three months, gave no reason for leaving. Trump has been expected to shake up staff to tackle the firestorm over investigations into alleged Russian meddling in the 2016 presidential election and communication between Russia and Trump's campaign and transition teams. REUTERS

PUERTO RICO WILL MAKE PENSION BOND PAYMENT

Puerto Rico's government said it will make a $13.9 million payment on June 1 to bondholders of the Employees Retirement System (ERS), the island's largest pension. The agreement, announced at a hearing in federal court in Manhattan, settled a lawsuit filed on Friday as part of ERS' ongoing bankruptcy. It did not resolve a similar dispute over about $16 million owed on June

1 to bondholders of Puerto Rico's sales tax authority, COFINA. The disputes are tied to Puerto Rico's massive economic crisis, which is marked by $70 billion in bond debt and another $49 billion in pension obligations. Those debts have pushed the U.S. territory and some of its public entities, including COFINA and ERS, into the largest combined municipal bankruptcy in U.S. history. REUTERS

WOODS 'ASLEEP AT THE WHEEL' OF STOPPED CAR

Former world No. 1 golfer Tiger Woods was asleep at the wheel of a stationary Mercedes-Benz vehicle on a Florida road and did not know where he was, according to a police report released on Tuesday, a day after his arrest on a charge of driving under the influence. Woods had "extremely slow and slurred speech" after being awoken by a Jupiter police officer, who found the car the golfer was driving stopped in the right lane of the roadway and still running, the report said. Woods was heading south, away from his Jupiter Island home, before his arrest at about 3 a.m. on Monday, according to the report. It said Woods was cooperative but had a hard time walking and keeping his eyes open. REUTERS

TEST OF DEFENSE AGAINST SIMULATED ICBM ATTACK

The U.S. military on Tuesday cheered a successful first-ever missile defense test involving a simulated attack by an intercontinental ballistic missile, in a major milestone for a program meant to defend against a mounting North Korean threat. The U.S. military fired an ICBM-type missile from the Kwajalein Atoll in the Marshall Islands toward the waters just south of Alaska. It then fired a missile to intercept it from Vandenberg Air Force Base in California. Experts compare the job to hitting a bullet with another bullet and note the complexity is magnified by the enormous distances involved. The Missile Defense Agency said it was the first live-fire test against a simulated ICBM for the Ground-based Midcourse Defense (GMD), managed by Boeing Co., and hailed it as an "incredible accomplishment." REUTERS

Urinating dog statue 'downgrades' Wall Street's 'Fearless Girl'

"Fearless Girl" has "nothing to do with feminism, and it is disrespectful to the artist that made the bull," the dog statue's sculptor said.

NIKKI M. MASCALI
@MetroNewYork
nikki.mascali@metro.us

Like her, it stood in defiance, albeit briefly.

But it was in defiance of "Fearless Girl's" powerful stance for women's equality in the corporate world that a pissing dog statue stood with one leg lifted to urinate on her.

Angry that the "Fearless Girl" is a semi-permanent sculpture-in-residence to stare down the famous Wall Street bull in the Financial District, New York sculptor Alex Gardega fought back by placing a work of his own at her feet on Monday for about three hours.

Gardega intentionally made his misshapen dog sculpture "crappy" to "downgrade" "Fearless Girl," he told the New York Post, "exactly how the girl is a downgrade to the bull." Some outlets report the statue is called the "Pissing Pug" while others call it "Sketchy Dog."

The girl, Gardega said, "has nothing to do with feminism, and it is disrespectful to the artist that made the bull."

Countless city officials, both male and female, disagreed and extended the "Fearless Girl" installation through February 2018 back in March, just weeks after she was put up to commemorate International Women's Day.

"I have been profoundly struck by what this statue means to girls and women," Mayor Bill de Blasio said when the extension was announced, adding that she "spoke to the moment and history" of women's empowerment now more than ever as women's rights feel threatened.

New York artist Alex Gardega briefly put up a statue of a dog urinating on the feet of Wall Street's 'Fearless Girl.' ALEX GARDEGA

The girl, Gardega said, "has nothing to do with feminism, and it is disrespectful to the artist that made the bull."

Despite her empowering message for women, Arturo Di Modica, sculptor of the "Charging Bull" the "Fearless Girl" stares down, is suing State Street Global Advisors, the Boston-based financial company that commissioned the statue from Kristen Visbal, for trademark and copyright infringement.

While State Street did not comment on the dog sculpture, a spokesperson did tell Metro that it continues "to be grateful to the countless people around the world who continue to respond so enthusiastically to what the 'Fearless Girl' represents — the power and potential of having more women in leadership. 'Fearless Girl' was created to stand as a reminder that having more women in leadership positions positively contributes to overall performance and strengthens our economy."

But Gardega said State Street's sculpture has a different meaning.

"'Fearless Girl' was not made by some individual artist making a statement," Gardega told NBC News. "It was made by a billion-dollar financial firm trying to promote an index fund. It is advertising/promotion in the guise of art. That was my only point."

First responders to be permanently honored with new 9/11 Memorial & Museum tribute

The project also aims to raise awareness of the health issues that ensued from the recovery work at Ground Zero.

NIKKI M. MASCALI
@MetroNewYork
nikki.mascali@metro.us

Fifteen years to the day since recovery efforts at Ground Zero formally ended, officials announced that the men and women who spent nine months working amid the rubble will be permanently honored at the 9/11 Memorial & Museum.

The dedication, which will be located on the Memorial Glade on the 8-acre plaza's southwest corner, will also touch on the effects the attack had on the health of survivors, city residents, responders and others.

"Many rescue and recovery workers will tell you that they responded to Ground Zero because they felt a duty to act. Without regard for their own health and well-being, and with no demand for recognition, these men and women played a critical role in helping us all in New York and across the country get back on our feet," former "Daily Show" host Jon Stewart, a board member of the memorial and museum and a longtime advocate for healthcare and benefits for the first responders, said in a statement Tuesday. "Today, thousands are living with serious illnesses and dying at an alarming rate. I'm thrilled this is finally happening, that this dedication will give them the recognition they're due."

A permanent tribute to the first responders and rescue and recovery workers is planned for the 9/11 Memorial & Museum. WIKIMEDIA

The announcement from Gov. Andrew Cuomo, Museum and Board Chairman Michael Bloomberg and Stewart arrived just days after a former first responder died of cancer at age 59.

Ray Pfeifer, a nearly 28-year veteran of the FDNY, died Sunday of the cancer he developed six years after he spent eight months at Ground Zero. Pfeifer, who lost a portion of his leg and a kidney to the cancer, traveled to Washington more than a dozen times to advocate for the Zadroga 9/11 Health and Compensation Act that passed in 2010 and gave healthcare to first responders though 2090.

Through June 4, the 9/11 Memorial & Museum will host various tributes to those who spent months working at Ground Zero until the recovery and relief efforts ended on May 30, 2002.

The dedication for the rescue and recovery workers at the 9/11 Memorial & Museum will be jointly funded by New York state, its affiliations and Bloomberg Philanthropies.

"Thousands of people converged at the World Trade Center site immediately after the attacks to show the world that our city and our country were not defeated," Bloomberg said. "We owe these men and women of the recovery a great debt of gratitude, and they deserve a fitting tribute for their courage, sacrifice and bravery."

"I SAVED MY FATHER'S LIFE"

"I got trained in overdose prevention after I spent four years in the army. One night at home, my dad fell out of bed. He wasn't breathing and he had turned blue. I knew he had used heroin before, I grabbed my naloxone and gave it to him. After a few minutes, he started breathing again. He came out of it. That was a life-changing moment for both of us."

Science is in a bad place, guys, but Tina Fey and her superfriends aren't letting us go gently to our "Idiocracy" fate.

The "30 Rock" creator is among the celebrity teachers taking part in the World Science Festival (despite the name, it's only taking place in the five boroughs).

Celebrating its 10th year, the fest is on now through June 4 with more than 50 performances, debates, intimate talks and family events, many of them free.

Not that science isn't cool on its own, but where else can you talk about women in astrophysics with "Big Bang Theory" star and neuroscientist Mayim Bialik, stargaze in Brooklyn Bridge Park with Bill Nye the Science Guy, or discuss the home of tomorrow with actress Ellen Burstyn, alongside Nobel laureates and TED Prize winners?

Check out the full schedule if this is your idea of Comic Con; for the casual nerds, we've rounded up some of the highlights.

Global warming takes center stage

For the first time, the festival is bringing four days of pop-up programs, educational installations and activities to the heart of the city with Science in the Square. The main event is Holoscenes, a giant aquarium that will periodically flood and drain between June 1-3, forcing the performers inside to adapt. Free, June 1-3, Seventh Ave. and 47th St.

LOST IN THE SWAMP

CNN's Tom Foreman is the author of the book "My Year of Running Dangerously."

political pros who – for better or worse – keep the wheels turning around here. He treated experienced Democrats, Independents and Republicans alike as if they were incompetent, unprincipled, or cowardly toadies to the status quo. And many began seething.

So now when the president needs a champion for his budget, a defender for his executive fiats, or even cheerleaders for his weekly assaults on all opponents foreign and domestic, you'll largely notice the sound of crickets. And yet, crickets might be a blessing, because make no mistake: This president is in real danger of being pulled under by the quicksand of low approval ratings, legislative indifference, investigative scrutiny and political isolation. And after the way he's treated everyone else in the "swamp" – many of whom have worked years on improving government and addressing those very issues he rails against – few hands are reaching out to help him.

If someone asked me to distill the essential message of Donald Trump in the long, wild months leading up to his election it would be: You're all wrong. Congress. The courts. The bureaucrats. Activists and analysts. The media. Especially the media. You don't understand the American public. You have no idea how to run a government. You are lost in a swamp – crawling with cronies, favors, and illicit insider deals – that you have no desire to leave.

I don't say this to suggest his critique of the fetid culture of DC is inherently incorrect. A great many voters think he nailed it. But I will say it's no way to make friends...and right now he could dearly use a few.

From his legislative agenda to the drawn-out process of assembling a complete White House team to the Russian investigations, President Trump is a man stuck in a mire. He desperately needs help to pull his administration forward – into legislative success, out of legal scrutiny – but fewer and fewer seem willing to even raise a torch to light the way, let alone haul him from the muck.

Why? Just think about it. When he effectively declared himself the beacon of wisdom on how to resurrect the economy, stop terrorism, reform healthcare, promote ethics, rewrite immigration law, and "drain the swamp" of government, he alienated a great many of the

Why Knee Arthritis Sufferers Of Almost All Ages Are Opting For Newest Medical Procedures Before Surgery . . .

Fraction of the cost, minimal risk and little to no downtime amongst top reasons

By Matt Edgar

America's Health Writer

New York City - Everyone has said it at one time or another. If I had only known about "this" sooner - things would be very different today.

That's what many knee arthritis pain sufferers are saying about this technology and treatment.

"We all know that countless lives are being saved every year because of early detection and better treatment" noted the clinic director at the NY Pain MD in New York City. "The same holds true for treating arthritis pain. I believe we are having so much success at NY Pain MD because of two factors: One is we are using advanced medical technology and treatments a lot of clinics do not use. And second, the word has spread to our community and so many knee arthritis sufferers are coming in sooner. And the earlier we can treat knee arthritis - the better the results. The key to trying to avoid knee replacement surgery is doing the correct treatment as soon as possible"

What is the "correct treatment?"

"That depends," said the director. "There is no one answer when it comes to medical conditions. Knee arthritis is no different. That's why, if you have knee pain, you should have it evaluated by a doctor who deals with and treats knee pain every day," added the director.

For many knee arthritis pain sufferers the right treatment is Viscosupplementation whereby a preparation of Hyaluronic acid a gel-like FDA approved medicine is applied directly into the knee joint using Precision Arthritis Targeting Technology.

Hyaluronic acid is the natural lubricant and shock absorber of your joints and is found to be decreased in arthritis sufferers. This is similar to running your car without oil. Obviously, the sooner you put oil back in the car - the less damage will be done. That's why some doctors feel early viscosupplementation gets the best results and is so important for avoiding surgery.

The director believes one of the most important factors for the success of viscosupplementation is making sure you are getting it into the joint space precisely. That's why the doctors at NY Pain MD use advanced imaging technology to apply Precision Arthritis Targeting during every treatment.

A device called the "C-Arm" allows the doctor to see into the joint and actually watch the medicine be applied exactly where it is supposed to. Research shows that performing procedures without Precision Arthritis Targeting (P.A.T.T.) can result in missing the joint space as much as 30% of the time. If you had viscosupplementation treatments without Precision Arthritis Targeting Technology and did not get good results - this may be why.

"If you have knee arthritis pain, viscosupplementation might be the answer you are looking for. The keys are not wait, get a good evaluation from an expert and make sure precision arthritis targeting is used to make sure you have the best chance for success."

Can This Be Avoided? Total knee replacement is serious surgery requiring months of rehabilitation. Some doctors think modern treatments done early enough can keep baby boomers from going under the knife.

Normal Pain-Free Knee Joint Everyone Wants Proof:

In the artist simulated drawings, picture #1 is a normal, pain-free knee. There is no arthritis and the knee can move and bend freely without pain.

Knee With Painful Arthritis Pain -

Illustration shown is a knee joint with painful xosteo-arthritis. Arthritis causes the joint space to decrease, grinding, stiffness, decreased motion, bone spurs, swelling and a lot of pain.

Research Shows Doctors Miss The Joint Space Up To 30% Of The Time Without Advanced Imaging Failed Treatment -

The injection (Lubrication medicine) misses the joint space. Research shows this occurs up to 30% of the time without the use of the digital imaging to guide the injection. This is why lubrication medicine may not have worked for you

Lubrication Medicine Injected Directly Into Knee Join Like "Joint Oil" using Precision Targeting Technology Successful Treatment -

Successful Treatment - Lubrication Medicine (blue) being precisely injected directly into the knee joint using digital imaging. Advance imaging allows treatments to be as precise as possible. Lubrication medicine can lubricate the joint and decrease pain.

Modern Doctor's FINALLY Offering These Special Treatments Right Here In New York City

Hundreds of arthritis sufferers from tri state area calling weekly to find out if treatment is right for them. Often covered by insurance.

If you qualify for this treatment, it might be one of the happiest days of your life.

That's because, for the past year and a half, hundreds of knee pain sufferers have flocked to NY Pain MD New York City.

That's when their specially trained-doctors added cutting-edge arthritis treatments to their already successful comprehensive knee pain relief program.

Viscosupplementation is unique because - even though it is manufactured by a pharmaceutical company, it is NOT considered a drug because it is a natural substance with an incredible story.

Why So Many Want It

You see, when you suffer with arthritis - the lubricating fluid (synovial fluid) in your knee joint dries up.

This means instead of gliding smoothly - your bones start to rub and grind against each other.

This causes a little pain in the beginning - but over time the pain steadily gets worse until it is excruciating.

Like "Joint Oil"

Viscosupplementation works so well because it is like "joint oil." It is a natural substance that contains one of the natural building blocks of the synovial fluid that lubricates your knee.

Scientists and researchers discovered this natural building block to synovial fluid in the rooster's comb - that big red thing on top of the roosters head. It is extracted from the roosters comb, purified and concentrated. They have also developed medical lubricants that are also natural but made a bit like yogurt and "cultured" into highly effective arthritis pain-fighting medical lubricants.

When introduced directly into your knee joint, it is like squirting oil on a rusty door hinge.

Viscosupplementation allows your joints to glide more smoothly eliminating a lot of the rubbing, grinding and pain.

Can Supplements Do The Same Thing?

No. Glucosamine and chondroitin and other supplements are much different. You can only get this from a doctor and it often helps knee pain sufferers who got limited or no success from glucosamine and chondroitin. Beware of unsubstantiated claims made by supplements to do what this advanced medical procedure does.

Why You Should Try This Even If You've Already Had Similar Treatments Without Results...

"We have been able to help so many knee pain sufferers even many who have already tried other treatments like Synvisc, Supartz, Orthovisc and even Hyalgan. This is because our treating doctors always use "Precision Arthritis Targeting Technology". This allows us to place the Viscosupplementation exactly where it needs to be. Studies show doctors doing joint injections without technology can miss the joint up to 30% of the time." noted the Director of Center

NY Pain MD is a state of the art medical facility offering nly the best technology.

Advanced Medical Technology Can Make All The Difference: This advanced Precision Arthritis Targeting Technology using fluoroscopic imaging allows doctors to see directly into the knee joint so treatments are precise and the FDA approved lubricating medicine actually goes EXACTLY where it is supposed to. Studies show that procedures done without this technology can miss the joint up to 30% of the time. This is one reason Viscosupplementation may not have worked for you in the past. NY Pain MD uses this P.A.T. Imaging Technology. with each and every treatment.

And that's not all :

"Every case is individual. Some patients get quite a bit of relief right away - others take a little more time. But most have been extremely happy. We've noted results lasting no less than 6 months for many but up to 2 years for some patients.. Patients who were suffering for years with bad knee pain are getting their lives back... going for walks again and exercising. It's amazing to see. They tell all their friends - that's why we are swarmed. After getting treatment and feeling better, many patients have decided to cancel their total knee replacement surgeries." added the director.

How To Find Out If It Can Help You?

If you have knee pain, the NY Pain MD doctors would like to invite you for a no-obligation screening to see if you are a candidate for their treatments using Precision Arthritis Targeting Technology.

US appeals court sides with transgender student in bathroom case

A U.S. appeals court on Tuesday affirmed a lower court's preliminary ruling that a transgender boy must be allowed to use the boys' toilets at his high school in Kenosha, Wisconsin.

Lawyers for Ashton Whitaker, 17, the transgender student behind the lawsuit, praised the decision by the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit as the first instance of a federal appeals court ruling that transgender students are protected under laws that ban discrimination in education.

Whitaker's family sued the Kenosha Unified School District last year over its decision to forbid him from using the boys' bathrooms at George Nelson Tremper High School because his birth certificate designates him as female.

The school district and Whitaker's high school did not respond to requests for comment.

Whitaker's is one of a string of legal battles on behalf of transgender people around the United States over the use of bathrooms in schools and public buildings, which has become one of the more divisive issues between conservatives and liberals in U.S. politics.

A unanimous three-judge panel of the Seventh Circuit court in Chicago said in their ruling they agreed with a district court in Wisconsin that Whitaker was likely to face "irreparable harm" if banned from the boys' bathrooms.

The panel also ruled Whitaker would likely win his claim, which continues in the lower court, that the anti-discrimination law known as Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 protects transgender students.

The ruling was dismissive of the school district's argument that allowing Whitaker to use the boys' bathrooms might infringe the privacy rights of other students. REUTERS

Merkel, minister stress US ties after critical Trump tweet

Germany's Chancellor Angela Merkel and President Donald Trump GETTY IMAGES

President Donald Trump called Germany's trade and spending policies "very bad" Tuesday, intensifying a row between the longtime allies and immediately earning himself the moniker "destroyer of Western values" from a leading German politician.

As the war of words threatened to spin out of control, Merkel and other senior German politicians stressed the importance of Germany's Atlantic ties, with Foreign Minister Sigmar Gabriel suggesting the spat was just a rough patch.

Trump took to Twitter early in the day in the United States to attack Germany, a day after Chancellor Angela Merkel ramped up her doubts about the reliability of Washington as an ally.

"We have a MASSIVE trade deficit with Germany, plus they pay FAR LESS than they should on NATO & military. Very bad for U.S. This will change," Trump tweeted.

The tit-for-tat dispute escalated rapidly after Trump, at back-to-back summits last week, criticized major NATO allies over their military spending and refused to endorse a global climate change accord.

On Sunday, Merkel showed the gravity of her concern about Washington's dependability under Trump when she warned, at an election-campaign event in a packed Bavarian beer tent — that the times when Europe could fully rely on others were "over to a certain extent."

Those comments, which caused shock in Washington, vented Europe's frustration with Trump on climate policy in particular. And while German politicians sided with Merkel, Foreign Minister Sigmar Gabriel signaled that it was time for cooler heads to prevail.

"The United States are older and bigger than the current conflict," he said, adding that relations would improve. "It is inappropriate that we are now communicating with each other between a beer tent and Twitter," he said in Berlin.

Merkel had already begun finessing her message Monday, stressing that she was a "convicted trans-Atlanticist," a message she repeated after a meeting with visiting Indian Prime Minister Narendra Modi in Berlin.

But Martin Schulz, leader of Gabriel's center-left Social Democrats, was less emollient earlier in the day when he told reporters Trump was "the destroyer of all Western values." He added that the U.S. president was undermining the peaceful cooperation of nations based on mutual respect and tolerance.

In Rome, Italian Prime Minister Paolo Gentiloni said he agreed with Merkel that Europe needed to forge its own path. REUTERS

Group linked to NSA leaks: More data will be released in July

A group that published hacking tools that security experts believe were stolen from the National Security Agency said on Tuesday it plans to sell a new batch of stolen code in July to customers willing to pay more than $22,000 for it.

The Shadow Brokers group said in an announcement on the internet that it has not yet determined what files will be in the collection. It has previously said it has access to tools for hacking into web mobile handsets and Microsoft Corp.'s Windows 10 operating system, web browsers and network routers.

It is not clear whether the group actually possesses those tools, or would make good on its promise to release them. Security researchers have urged taking the threat seriously after the Shadow Brokers released a group of NSA hacking tools in April, including one that was used to launch this month's massive "WannaCry" cyber attack.

WannaCry crippled some 300,000 computers worldwide, causing disruptions at hospitals, post offices, auto plants and government offices.

"This is potentially disastrous," said Matt Suiche, founder of cyber security firm Comae Technologies, who closely follows the Shadow Brokers.

It is not clear who is behind the Shadow Brokers, though some security experts have said they believe the group is tied to the Russian government and working to embarrass the United States.

NSA headquarters in Fort Meade, Maryland GETTY IMAGES

NSA officials could not be reached for comment Tuesday. The agency has declined to say if it built the hacking tools released by Shadow Brokers, or discuss the group's activities.

The company said on May 16 that it was aware of Shadow Broker's claims that it had tools for hacking Windows 10, adding that its staff were actively monitoring emerging cyber threats. REUTERS

Jeb Bush backs out on Derek Jeter and purchase of Marlins

Former New York Yankees All-Star Derek Jeter's dream of buying a Major League Baseball team might have to wait a little longer than anticipated.

After winning the auction to buy the Miami Marlins among a group headed by himself and Jeb Bush, the former Florida governor "is no longer interested" in buying the team, a source told the Associated Press (h/t WSVN.com) on Tuesday.

The reason why Bush has suddenly backed out has not been disclosed as of yet.

The source stated that "Gov. Bush has great respect for Derek Jeter and Derek remains a great friend. ... He's looking forward to a great rest of the season for the Marlins."

Bush was expected to be the controlling owner of the team while Jeter assumed an active role within the organization after their group met the $1.3 billion price tag at auction on April 25.

The AP source disclosed that Jeter might still attempt to catch on with another investor's bid. The reported current frontrunner to now buy the team from Jeffrey Loria is a group led by Tagg Romney, son of Mitt, which includes former Atlanta Braves and New York Mets pitcher Tom Glavine. JOE PANTORNO

Ariana Grande will make her big return to Manchester

Ariana Grande is going back to Manchester: The 23-year-old will return to the U.K. on Sunday in an effort to raise money for the victims of the May 22 terrorist attack. And, according to People, she won't be alone.

Grande confirmed the "One Love Manchester" event via Twitter, and tons of acts are slated to perform, including Coldplay, Miley Cyrus, Justin Bieber, Katy Perry and Pharrell Williams. And since this whole thing will benefit the victims and the families affected by the Manchester attack, I will not say anything snarky about Miley Cyrus, Justin Bieber or Katy Perry. Even though it's really hard.

A few days after the attack, the "Dangerous Woman" singer shared a heartfelt message on Twitter and Instagram.

"My heart, prayers and deepest condolences are with the victims of the Manchester Attack and their loved ones," Grande wrote. "I extend my hand and heart and everything I possibly can give to you and yours, should you want or need my help in any way."

Inspirational! Good for Grande, and the rest of these pop stars for doing good after a tragic, horrible incident.

This is going to be amazing.

Two celibate brunettes got married this weekend

Over the Memorial Day weekend, while the rest of us were guzzling summer inspired cocktails and drowning in violent hangovers of our own making, celibate brunette Miranda Kerr married celibate Snapchat CEO Evan Spiegel. Mazel tov or whatever.

People has the boring details: Kerr, 34, and Spiegel, 26, tied the knot in an intimate ceremony in Southern California. I'm talking real intimate — there were only about 40 guests total. But that didn't stop the ceremony from being um, how do you say, over the top? "For a small wedding it has been a huge production," a source tells the mag. "The wedding and reception are intimate, but lavish and classy... [Miranda] is ecstatic to marry Evan."

Part of the reason she may be so "ecstatic" is because the two were practicing celibacy, which is old timey AF. In an interview with The Times of London earlier this year, Kerr said, "My partner is very traditional. We can't... I mean we're just... waiting." Girl, I guess!

Most important, though? Congratulations to Kerr on marrying a 26-year-old dude. I've known a lot of 26-year-old dudes and they're kind of the worst.

Congratulations to these very rich born-again virgins.

Patrick Bateman's doppelganger wants to make Kourtney Kardashian jealous

This is desperate, even for him.

Scott Disick, a 34-year-old mooch and father of three, was spotted feeling up Bella Thorne, a former Disney actress, at Cannes last week. It was, all in all, pretty desperate. Now, TMZ reports what we already knew: It was just a ploy to make ex-girlfriend slash babymama Kourtney Kardashian jealous. Who knew?!

A source tells the site that Disick's horrid displays of so-called affection were a planned offensive to hurt the eldest Kardashian — and to make her jealous. And Bella wasn't the only one: According to People, Disick was spotted with two other women, kissed a mystery brunette, and then was seen hanging with 18-year-old model Sofia Richie. Gross! All because Kourtney, 38, has that pretty young boyfriend, Younes Bendjima.

Now, because of Disick's general air of irresponsibility, the Kardashians are done with him. Their plan of punishment? Excommunicating him from family dinners and vacations. And Kourtney won't let Scott see their kids — Mason, 7, Penelope, 4, and Reign, 2 — until he proves he's sober.

Sounds good to me. Get help, dude! And stop making out with 19-year-olds, it's just way too obvious, thank you, bye!

Ludacris really wants to hang with millennials

Why must MTV torture us so?

Ludacris and MTV are bringing so-called cult classic "Fear Factor" to a new generation, and that frightens me.

According to Bustle, the "Fast and the Furious" star plans to change things up by focusing on things young people care about. So it will be less dangling out of a helicopter, and more roaming mode on their iPhone. Truly terrifying!

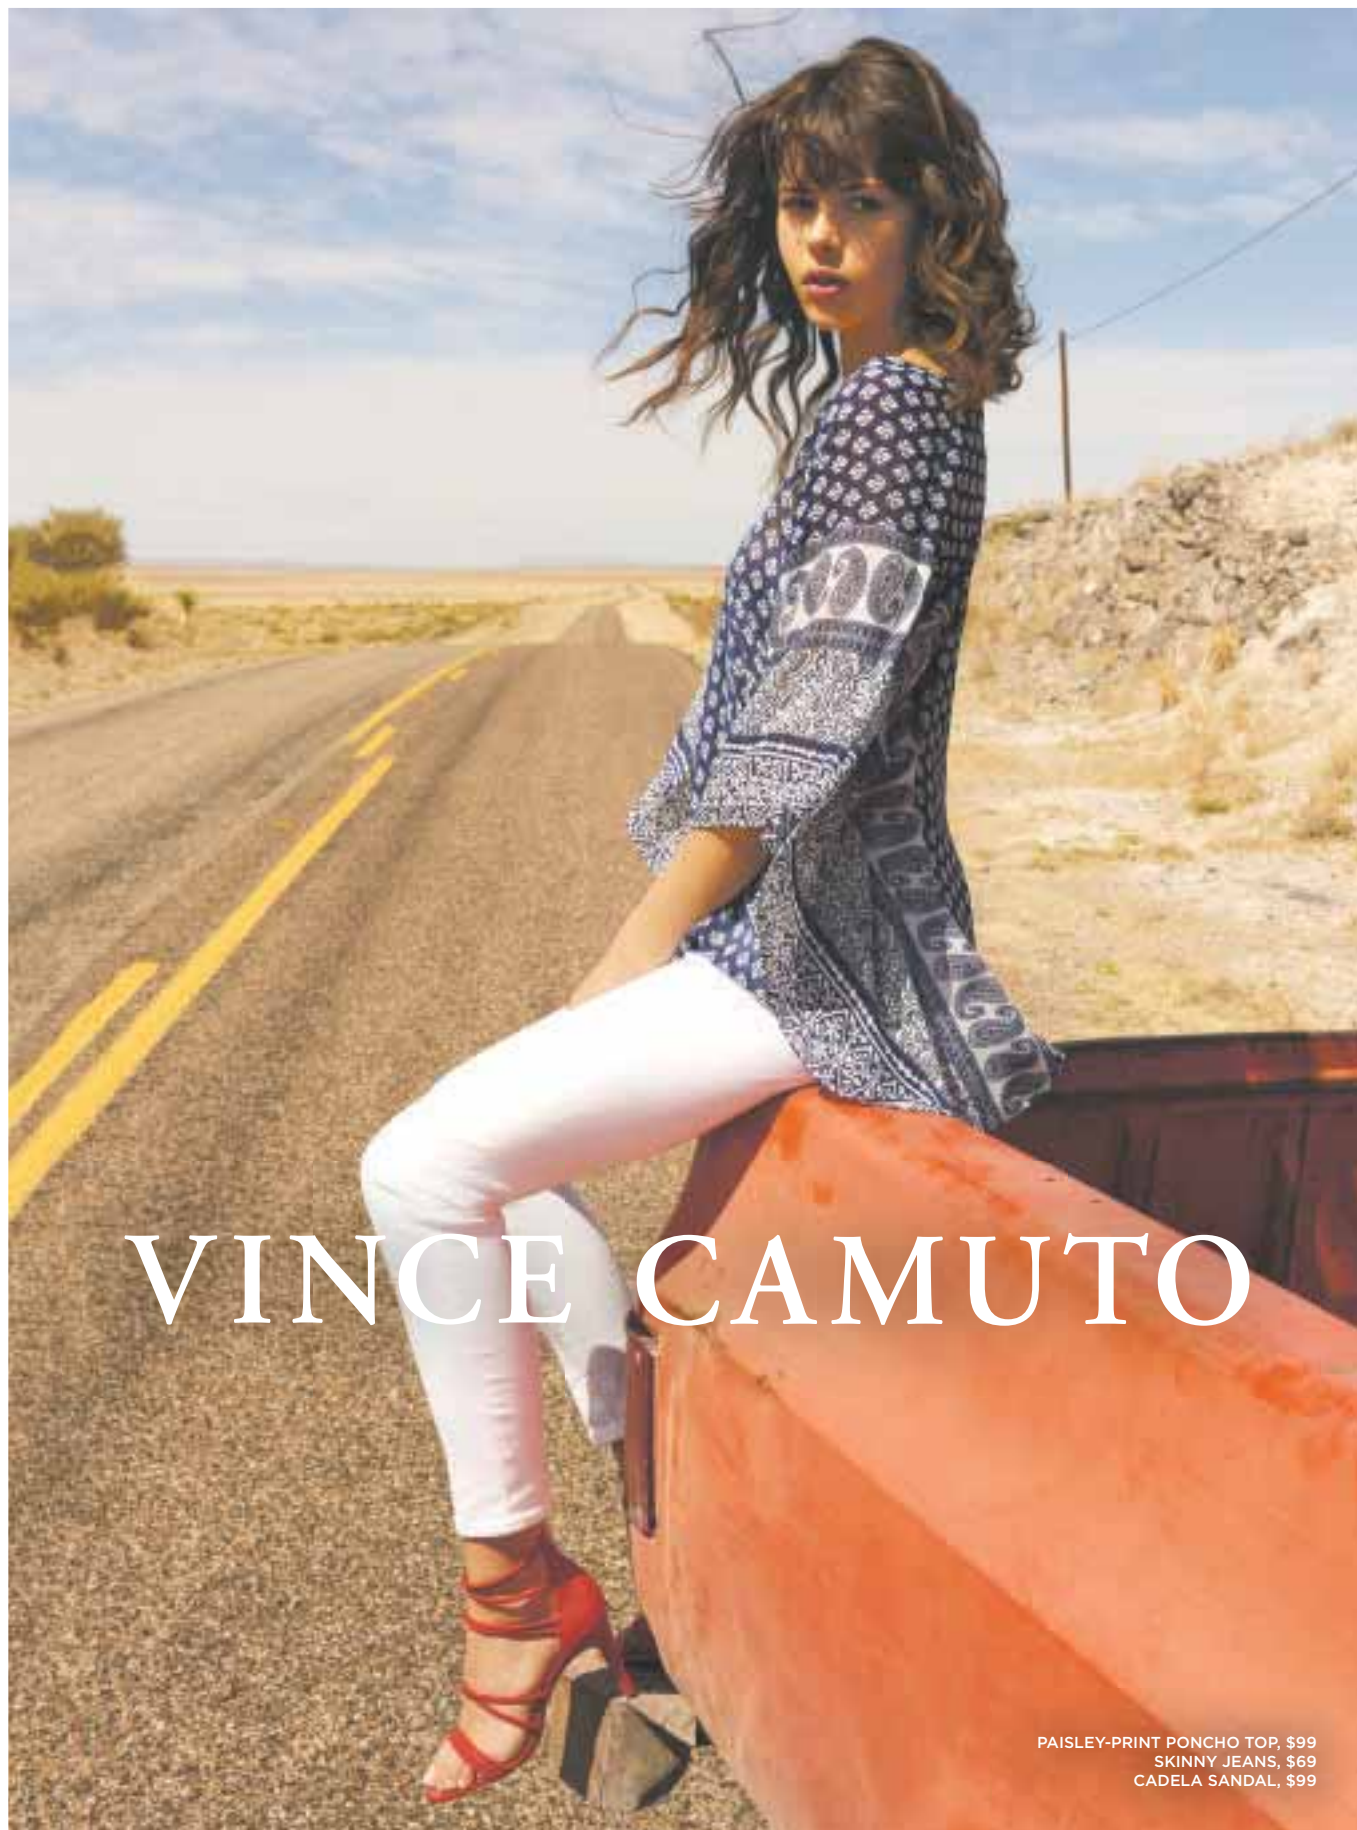

"It still has the DNA of the original 'Fear Factor' but technology has changed over time, so we're just trying to give it a new face and a new energy," he told Bustle. "When you incorporate cellphones, that is people's biggest fears these days, losing their cellphones."

Wow! He has really chosen to go very literal here. Pretty sure whatever you get compensated for merely appearing on "Fear Factor" will cover the cost of a broken or lost cellphone.

Anyway, Ludacris

plans to torture all the contestants — who are being pushed to their limits for the chance to win $50,000. That's a year's salary, yo! "If they have to eat something crazy or drink something crazy, I'm there with like, a glass of wine," he says. Presumably laughing maniacally. "I'm drinking my wine and throwing it in their face while they have to do the exact opposite." OK, that's rude, sir.

The best movies coming

Joel Osment talks to Bruce Willis (and dead people) in M. Night Shyamalan's "The Sixth Sense," about to hit Netflix. GETTY IMAGES

"Young Frankenstein" 20TH CENTURY FOX

Many titles are leaving this month, but there are plenty to take their place.

MATT PRIGGE
@mattprigge
matt.prigge@metro.us

"The Sixth Sense" (June 1)

M. Night Shyamalan is cool again, thanks to the one-two punch comeback of "The Visit" and (especially) the nutso "Split." So, good time to point out that we're not fans of the movie that made him a name? It's not just that we guessed the twist. (We totally did. In your face!) It's that, remove the ending, and there's not much of a movie. That being said, we'd entertain the idea that we're wrong. And since we've found much to admire in Shyamalan's work over the years — even in "Lady in the Water" — we'd even hazard to guess that a repeat viewing will reveal riches we didn't see back in 1999.

"Young Frankenstein" (June 1)

When Gene Wilder passed away last August, we nipped onto Netflix to see which of the actor's classics we could grief-stream. And there was nada. Eventually they got on the ball; right now you can cue up "Blazing Saddles" and "Silver Streak." And very soon you can do the same with "Young Frankenstein," our pick for Wilder's finest Mel Brooks team-up — not only because of all the jokes, but because of all the love Brooks put into recreating the Gothic look and scratchy feel of old Universal monster movies. It even has the "Puttin' on the Ritz" cover to beat. Sorry, Taco.

"Catfight" (June 1)

Somehow a movie in which Anne Heche and Sandra Oh keep beating the crap out of each other didn't become an indie box office juggernaut. But Onur Tukel's dark comedy has more to it than a trifecta of wailings. It's a grouchy, shape-shifting satire that takes hilariously shocking hairpin turns every half hour. Each time our frenemy heroes duke it out, the story suddenly jumps a handful of years, their fortunes dramatically changed, the world at large getting hilariously worse. You come for two acclaimed actresses cold-cocking each other; you stay for a surprise dystopian comedy in which universal health care is suddenly obliterated.

"Zodiac" (June 1)

A BBC poll last year named David Lynch's "Mulholland Dr." the best movie of the aughts. We'd go with "Zodiac." Audiences of 2007 were lured in by the idea of David Fincher, the director of "Seven," tackling a true crime serial killer. What they got was a three-hour ode to OCD and the very human need to find closure even in stories that have none. We'll almost certainly never know who the Zodiac Killer was, and this furious procedural fills an epic length with endless dead ends — and with arguably Robert Downey Jr.'s finest and funniest turn.

"Okja" NETFLIX

"Moana" (June 20)

When the latest Disney animated opus landed mere weeks after Election Day, it was hard not to tear up at a feel-good adventure about a little girl facing her fears and coming out triumphant. It should play just as gangbusters now, providing a pick-up when we still, six months later, need it.

"Okja" (June 28)

We're of two minds when it comes to Netflix producing original movies. On one hand, someone has to hand money to daring filmmakers to make movies Hollywood would never greenlight. On the other, they don't release these spectaculars in actual movie theaters. So take the latest Bong Joon-ho ("Snowpiercer") any way you can. The tale of a little girl trying to keep government mitts off her giant, pig-like creature, it's already premiered to raves at Cannes. And if the name "Bong Joon-ho" doesn't get your attention, an international cast that includes Tilda Swinton, Jake Gyllenhaal and Paul Dano should.

Loosie's Cafe is your hideaway from city life. DANIEL CORREA

Start with free coffee, end with $5 cocktails

You'll be rewarded for discovering the charming Loosie's Cafe.

eva.kis@metro.us

Secret gardens don't usually come with a caffeinated hideaway, but that's exactly what you'll find at Loosie's Café.

The Loosie's empire began as a New Orleans-inspired piano bar, spawned a California-chic restaurant, and has now created an enchanted all-day greenhouse garden.

Tucked under the Williamsburg Bridge, Loosie's Cafe (93 S. Sixth St.) requires an almost "Alice in Wonderland" kind of journey down a garden path through a tunnel of ivy and vines.

Once you've left the dimension of our noisy city, you emerge into the glass greenhouse full of plants, a geometric mural by Love Berto and hammocks, if your day calls for that kind of relaxation. While tons of natural light can shine in, the glass roof will protect you from summer rains.

If that all sounds like you'll never want to leave, that's the point. As other cafes are trying to keep people from lingering, Loosie's makes it easy to stay all day, whether to co-work (Wi-Fi is free!), daydream or just enjoy the garden that studio apartments just can't support.

Early birds will reap the biggest rewards: All summer long, Loosie's is offering free coffee from 7 a.m.-8 a.m., even its lattes and specialty drinks.

And because the cafe sits right on the doorstep of Loosie's Kitchen, you'll never have to pair your brew with a stale croissant. Pastry chef Kyla Kelly basically has an honorary art degree after creating pastries for the Met and the National Arts Club. At Loosie's, she's making treats like superfood doughnuts and matcha cream puffs fresh all day, as well as seasonal desserts.

(There are savory menu options too, like BECs at breakfast and salads and sandwiches later in the day.)

Free morning coffee isn't the only perk — happy hour starts at noon every day at Loosie's, with $5 rotating drink specials (the uber-healthy kale matcha margarita was a recent entry), plus $5 rosé and $1 oysters until closing time at 6 p.m.

Loosie's Cafe is open daily, 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. Weekend brunch starts at 11 a.m.

LUNYC focuses on high-end apartment and townhouse listings in Manhattan

Adam Pally, an actor who is perhaps best known for his role as Max Blum on the ABC series "Happy Endings," has just laid out $3.2 million for an apartment at London Terrace Towers at 470 W. 24th St., per city records.

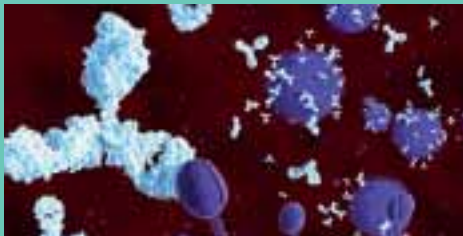

According to the listing, with Patty LaRocco and Yasmine Guenancia of Douglas Elliman, the unit is a combination of two adjoining apartments, and has been "meticulously restored." The 2,248-square-foot apartment has three bedrooms and three bathrooms. It supposedly offers one of the largest kitchens in the building and a wood-burning fireplace in the living room. The prewar building has a heated pool, giant shared terrace, a gym and a parking garage.

Rentals at One Hudson Yards launch this summer

The 178-unit building will have rents starting at $5,095.

TheRealDeal.com is a daily blog and monthly magazine covering real estate in the New York metro area.

THE REAL DEAL

The Related Companies is gearing up to debut its second residential building at the massive mixed-use Hudson Yards project on the Far West Side.

The 178-unit rental building known as One Hudson Yards is slated to launch leasing this summer, according to a teaser website that went up last week. Rents at the building are slated to start at $5,095 a month for a one-bedroom apartment.

The 33-story building comprises predominantly one- to three-bedroom units, but there's a four-bedroom home on the penthouse level, the company said. The architect of the property, which has a stone and glass facade, is Davis Brody Bond, a New York-based firm which also worked on the National September 11 Memorial & Museum. Amenities include an 82-foot pool, an Equinox fitness center, a half-size basketball court, a bowling alley and a game lounge.

The debut marks a switch up in marketing for Related, which had previously reserved the name One Hudson Yards for an office tower it's developing at 550 W. 34th St. That building is now known as 55 Hudson Yards.

Related launched sales at the first of the residential towers at the project, a condominium at 15 Hudson Yards, last September. The company announced in January that it had signed 75 contracts in the first four months, at prices averaging nearly $5 million per unit.

MATT JUUL
letters@metro.us

If you need some help getting your house ready for the warm summer weather, HGTV and Food Network star Taniya Nay-ak has a few suggestions. The 44-year-old interior designer and restaurateur has transformed many struggling eateries alongside Robert Irvine on "Restaurant: Impossible," so we decided to pick her brain over how to get our dining spaces in shape, and to find out what else is trending this season.

Since you're known for designing restaurants on "Restaurant: Impossible," have you noticed any new trends from the food world?

More organic elements. A lot of texture. Whether it's woven textures, natural wood, lighter, brighter, fresher — that's the direction I see a lot of the restaurant design going into.

Are there any design lessons from your experience working with restaurants that everyday people can incorporate into their homes?

All the years of "Restaurant: Impossible," I was always thinking about the viewer watching. All those millions of people did not own restaurants. How could they watch the show and get a takeaway from it? Basically, there are elements of color palates. There's lighting, how to utilize lighting to create spaces. We see often now, in homes, the whole open floor plan concept. Nobody wants to be tucked away in a closed off kitchen anymore. There's seems to be a shift to open floor plans. And using lighting to identify spaces, like light fixtures to identify the dining area, or a great fixture to identify a cozy little reading nook, whether it's hanging from the ceiling or a floor lamp.

What about things people should avoid when considering new home dining designs?

Don't over do it. My best advice to anyone doing any renovations to their home, particularly for new home owners, limit the space a little bit. Don't over-design it and over-plan it before you get in. Get in, get the bare bones minimum of what you need — your bed, your couch, whatever — but really limit it to that space. You're going to find that the spaces are not what you may have thought before living in it. Give yourself a break. I think people stress themselves out too much over being too particular.

Do you have any summer decor recommendations?

I love to advise people to keep the base furniture, like the big pieces, keep that somewhat neutral. That could be gray, white, something that's like a blank slate. They bring in pops of color or your seasonal changes to the accents. So it could be drapery, it could be an area rug, it could be a throw pillow. Those things that you can change out easily.

STOP EXPECTING ODELL BECKHAM JR. TO BE SOMETHING HE IS NOT

OPINION

@marcmalusis

New York Giants wide receiver Odell Beckham Jr. is one of the most dynamic offensive players in the NFL. He is the true definition of a game breaker. He is also emotional, sometimes to a fault, as we have seen when he embarrassed himself and the Giants with his behavior against Josh Norman a few years back.

The emotion was on further display last season when we witnessed him assault, propose to and kiss a kicking net before taking a trip to Miami less than a week before their playoff loss to the Green Bay Packers.

Beckham has certainly had an interesting three years in the NFL. He stamped himself a star in the league with his ridiculous one-handed touchdown catch against the Cowboys his rookie season. His pregame one-handed catch routine is jaw-droppingly impressive. He is a physical, athletic freak who lights up this city. He is a star.

With that being said, he certainly does have shortcomings and those are well documented. He knows he is a "star" and that might be part of the issue. He is not a leader and has shown little to no leadership skills since stepping foot in the NFL.

I don't care how long he works with Hall of Fame wide receiver Cris Carter; Beckham is emotional, childish and immature. But the Giants need him and everyone knows it.

So, should we be surprised by the story that grabbed the headlines this past week that Beckham did not show up to OTAs?

They are voluntary, by the way.

Even with that being the case, everyone was up in arms that he did not show up.

Should we be surprised that he was catching footballs from former Heisman Trophy-winner and NFL flameout Johnny Manziel?

Just because Eli Manning, Ben McAdoo, Jerry Reese and John Mara are all looking for OBJ to turn over a new leaf and mature does not mean that he will be doing that anytime soon.

He might be a distraction and might cause a headache or two, but he is a playmaker and makes the Giants' offense better.

Plus, the Giants have not held him accountable for his behavior other than some strong statements of discontent.

Let's not soon forget that Beckham just signed the largest shoe deal ever for an NFL player with Nike. He will reportedly make $29 million over five years and potentially $48 million over eight. He is being rewarded handsomely with huge financial gains for who he is on and off the field. So why should he feel the pressure to change?

Not only is he a star, but he is king of social media among millennials. He has millions of followers on Twitter, Instagram and Facebook, and his impact on those platforms is unquestioned.

Do yourself a favor and

RECEIVING TOUCH-DOWNS IN BECKHAM'S
FIRST THREE SEASONS

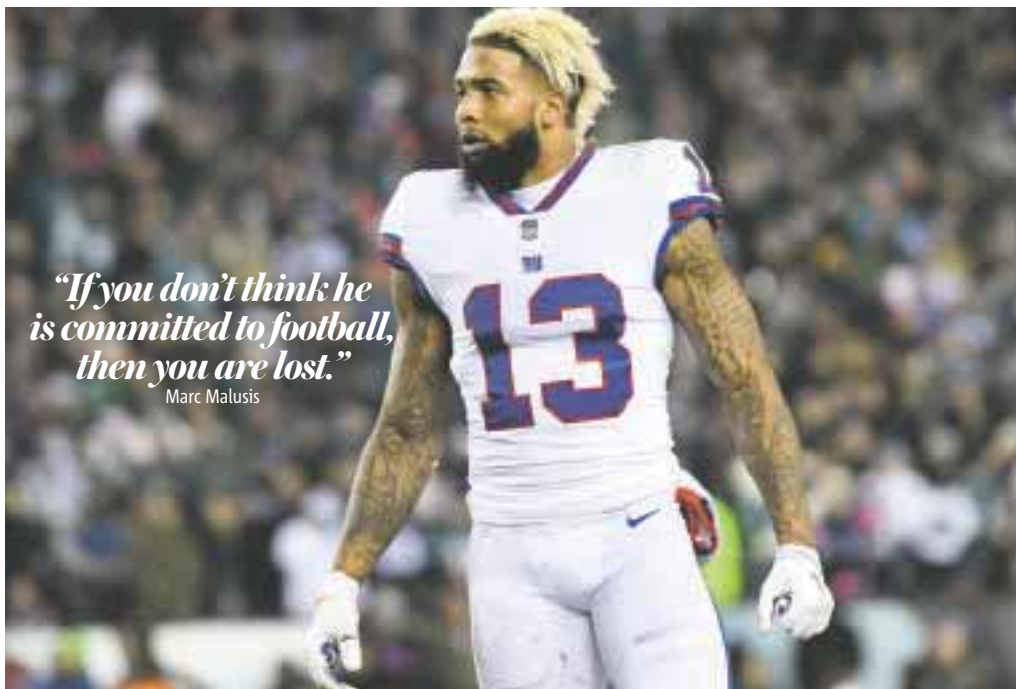

just look at the response of him retweeting some reactions about his no-show to OTAs. It is almost as if Beckham is trolling all of us.

So, how do you control something that is uncontrollable?

Beckham plays with emotion, and his emotions help fuel the engine that makes him a dynamic wide receiver. The Giants are looking to try and get Beckham to buy in and do it their way.

But what is their leverage? They know they are a better football team with him on the field than without.

They would love to see him at OTAs but they

"If you don't think he is committed to football, then you are lost."

Marc Malusis

Giants wide receiver Odell Beckham Jr. might not be the most mature player, but he is one of the best in the league. GETTY IMAGES can't demand that he be there because it is voluntary. And just like everyone else, if Beckham performs at his usual elite level in the regular season and helps the Giants win games and make the playoffs, do you really care if he was at the Giants practice facility in May, stretching and running routes?

You see, that's the rub. He knows, as we all do, what time really matters on the NFL's calendar: autumn.

I think his no-show at OTAs is not that big a deal as long as he is set and ready to go in September. All the fake shock and awe this week will not amount to much when he is split out wide come Week 1.

If you don't think he is committed to football, then you are lost. He might have a strange way of showing it, but there is no doubt in my mind that he loves the game and wants to be one of the best to ever play.

He can help the Giants win, but you'll need a bottle of Advil to deal with it.

Let's appreciate the player that Odell Beckham Jr. is, flaws and all. He might frustrate you, but the Giants are certainly happy to have him and he knows that.

Aries Jump right in and get moving. What you do will make an impression on onlookers, executives or someone you are trying to impress. Love and romance are in the stars.

Taurus Look at your alternatives before you let someone press emotional buttons to test your patience. Resolve issues in a diplomatic fashion to discourage bad etiquette.

Gemini Channel your energy into the things and people that bring you the most joy. You have plenty to gain if you take action and make things happen.

Cancer Get involved in community events and fundraisers, but don't let anyone dump his or her responsibilities in your lap. Contribute what you feel is fair.

Leo A chance to make a professional or financial move is within reach. Don't worry about what others say or think; just do what's best for you.

Virgo Put your heart into any job you are given. How you perform will make a difference to the way others perceive you. Use your intelligence to master new skills.

Libra Relationships will undergo changes. Work on getting along with the people in your life who you share the most with mentally, physically and financially.

Scorpio Show responsibility and the willingness to take ownership for your actions. Your ability to reiterate precisely what you are trying to accomplish will yield good results.

Sagittarius An emotional situation will develop if you evade issues that need to be addressed. Offer an accurate account of your viewpoint and be willing to compromise.

Capricorn Put more money toward your investments or living quarters. Building your assets will give you peace of mind. An unexpected gift will take you by surprise.

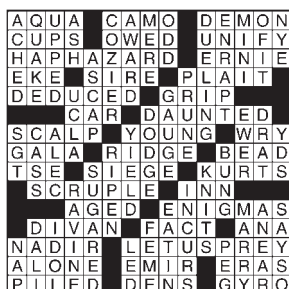

Aquarius If you sign up for a challenge that will require stamina, strength and determination, you will come out on top. Share your victory with the ones you love.

Pisces Play whatever game you choose with personal finesse and an unexpected approach. Doing things differently will be your entry to the winner's circle. EUGENIA LAST
